Edward's Qualifications.

Certain mysteries in politics little Mrs. Hobart cannot penetrate; in all loyalty to her husband, she feels called upon to refer to them once in a while. "I have never understood," she said to one of her husband's relatives, "why Mr. Edward would not have been a much better candidate for governor than his brother James, and I am positive he was as well fitted for the office of mayor as his cousin Henry." "But—has Edward ever thought of running for either office?" inquired the relative. "I presume not. I have never said as much to him as I am saying to you," and Mrs. "Edward" held her chin well in the air. "But when you consider that James Hobart has twice forgotten his own wife's birthday, and that Henry Hobart can't tell pink from yellow, to this day, I should think it would have occurred to any one how much more my Edward would have graced a political office than either of them." JANESVILLE LADY IS TENDERED RECEPTION

Mrs. Frank Slawson Guest of Honor at Notable Reception at Tampa, Florida.

The following notice of a reception tendered Mrs. Frank Slawson at Tampa, Florida, will be of interest in this city, where Mrs. Slawson is well known and the hostesses and other sisters mentioned having frequently visited in Janesville. Mrs. Slawson is spending the winter season with her sisters in Tampa, Florida, and with her parents at Lima, Fla. The notice is from the Jacksonville, Fla., Metropolis, as follows:

A beautiful reception was given last Monday afternoon by Mrs. Oscar Whitworth and Mrs. Pauline Browne Hazen at the Tampa Bay Hotel in honor of their sister, Mrs. Frank D. Slawson, of Janesville, Wis., and Mrs. Wilbur A. LeGato, of Jacksonville, who are visiting them. The handsome large drawing room was decorated for the occasion in red and green. Handsome silver candelabra bore red candles. The punch table was in the drawing room and was decorated with palm-trees, the beverage itself carrying out the color scheme. The punch cups were decorated with tiny heart valentines. Serving the punch were Mrs. Edward Smook and Mrs. Ben Froer. There were also electrical effects in palm-trees.

Mrs. J. H. Meeker and Mrs. W. A. Varnado received the guests near the entrance from the rotunda to the corridor leading to the drawing room. The cards were received by a pair of very charming little children, Master James Edward Wall, Jr., and Lady Sara Olmsted, the little boy wearing a face similar to that of white satin, and the little girl being in white accented with a pink sash.

Mrs. V. F. Foman and Mrs. D. H. Givens received at the drawing room door. In the receiving line were also Mrs. Whitworth, Mrs. Hazen, Mrs. Slawson, Mrs. LeGato and Miss Melio Browne.

Mrs. Slawson wore a graceful French gown of ivory brocade satin, veiled with jeweled net, with bodice drapery and tunic of lobster colored crepe cloth trimmed in pearls and a touch of turquoise. It had a square court train. She carried white carnations.

The valentine idea in the dining room was carried out in an original and pretty way. The ladies assisting were white lingerie frocks with tulle formed of light blue hearts and blue ribbons, and a string of the hearts hung from the left shoulder. The dining room was in white and light blue. The circular table in the center of the room was covered with a handsome blue lace cloth over green, and in the center was a large heart of white carnations and asparagus fern. Surrounding this were cut glass candelabra with blue tapers and flower shades of lilacs of the valley and maiden hair fern. Asparagus fern and valley lilacs were banded around the edge of the table.

A chicken salad course with asparagus, and tea and coffee were served. All the ladies assisting were very handsomely gowned. Over two hundred ladies attended.

VOTING AT PRIMARY ON A PAPER BALLOT

Voting Machines Not to be Used in Nomination of Municipal Officers—Score of Candidates.

Paper ballots will be used at the municipal primaries to be held March 19, for the nomination of candidates for mayor, councilmen, constables, school commissioners and other officers. The voting machines will not be utilized. The candidates are too numerous to make their use possible. Over a score are now in the field and the end is not yet in sight.

Three days remain in which candidates for councilman and mayor can file their petitions and affidavits. Fifteen have already done so. The new council will have to make their own campaign. Some in the field are reported to have made thorough canvasses, especially in the wards where they have their residence. Others have been content to trust to their record as city officials to win them a place on the ballot.

Small Audience Greeted Excellent Production of a "Play Without a Name" Last Night.

Although there was a very small house at the Myra last night, the "Play Without a Name" proved to be a thrilling western drama of the best kind and those who attended the performance were well repaid for their pains. The entire play was interspersed with humorous incidents which kept the audience in a roar of laughter. Throughout the performance the cast upheld the bridge and Adelaide Dalton in the leading parts in a very pleasing manner which made this one of the strongest plays which the company has given during the season. The plot is woven around the love of a western ranch girl for a man who is being pursued by a sheriff after a blood feud. Not knowing his character, she falls in love with him and when he proves to her that he has reformed for her sake and intends to live straight after that, she helps him to escape. He is shot by the sheriff and seriously wounded just as he is leaving her house and she attempts to hide him. Upon his discovery she plays the sheriff who is also in love with her, a game of poker to see whether he gets her or the man he is after. She wins and after a short but intense excitement the man who loves is freed and forgiven. Altogether it is a very well written and well played show and one worth seeing.

[Special to this Gazette.]

Leyden, Feb. 23.—Miss Martha Elser and Otto Kerstine, both of this place, were quietly wedded at the home of the bride's father, Christ Elser, yesterday morning at half past eleven. Rev. Wendler of Hanover read the marriage service in the presence of one hundred and fifty relatives and friends. The bride was attended by Miss Katie Sarnow and Anna Nightingale, and William Elser and August Kerstine attended the groom. An elaborate wedding dinner was served following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Kerstine will make their home here where they have a large circle of friends.

HOLD FUNERAL OF HERMAN LIDICKER

Impressive Ceremonies Mark Last Rites of Man Who Died in Beloit.

[Special to this Gazette.]

Edgerton, Feb. 23.—The funeral party bringing the remains of the late Herman Lidicker, who died in Beloit, Tuesday morning, arrived here yesterday at twelve o'clock noon. At the depot the party was joined by the local Masonic order under whose auspices the services were conducted at the grave. The casket was completely bedecked with flowers.

Relatives from various sections accompanying the remains were: Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lidicker, George H. Toussley, Beloit; John Lang, Harvard, Ill.; Nels Jacobson, Frank Jacobson, Miss Lilla Lidicker, Leslie Lidicker, Beloit; John Schmidt, Della Schmidt, Jefferson; Mrs. Doris Spangler, Fort Atkinson.

The deceased was born at Golden Lake, Wis., Jefferson county, Oct. 14, 1863. When a young man he came to Edgerton and learned the blacksmith's trade, and at the conclusion of the same conducted a shop here for a number of years. Later he conducted a livery, next became proprietor of the old U. S. hotel, then engaged in the grocery business. Seven years ago he conducted a hotel at Broadhead, removing then to Beloit with his family where he has resided. Engaged in business here for many years he formed the acquaintance of a large circle of friends by who he ever was held in high esteem. His wife, nee Jennie Schmidt, to whom he was married in Edgerton on May 1, 1879, together with the only son, Ralph Lidicker, survive. The widow was not able to accompany the remains here, being also afflicted with cancer and cannot long survive.

WISCONSIN FOURTH IN LIST OF STATES

Good Roads Improvement Listed by the Federal Government Gives Badger State Good Place in Work.

Even with a high-powered automobile that could keep up a pace of 90 miles an hour indefinitely, it would take a man more than 65 years to cover all the public roads in the United States. A young man of twenty starting out to accomplish this tremendous task would be 85 before he had covered the last mile of public highway in this country.

After an investigation extending over many months, Logan Waller Page, Director of the Office of Public Roads, has ascertained that there are now 2,199,645 miles of public roads in the United States. The figures include all the new roads built up to the year 1909. In 1904 there were exactly 2,151,370. It is apparent, therefore, that the increased mileage of new roads within a period of about five years has been 48,275.

"The investigation just concluded," said Director Page, in an interview, "shows conclusively that the movement for the improvement of public highways has obtained a firm grip on the country. The percentage of roads which were really improved, amounted to 7.14 in 1904, while in 1909, to which year statistics are now available, the percentage was 8.06.

"It is interesting to observe the growth of improved methods in road construction. For instance, the total mileage of stone roads in 1904 was 35,818, while in 1909 it was 59,237. The total mileage of gravel roads in 1904 was 109,905, while in 1909 it was only 102,870. This decrease in gravel roads, however, was due to a reclassification of some of the roads, while the percentage of sand and clay, brick, bituminous-macadam and other improved roads in 1904 was 6.80, while in 1909 the mileage reached 28,572.

"The office of Public Roads has just issued a table showing the states having the largest mileage of improved roads:

	1904	1909
Indiana	23,877	24,355
Ohio	23,480	24,106
New York	12,787	12,787
Wisconsin	10,933	10,107
Kentucky	9,486	10,114
Illinois	7,924	8,914
Mississippi	8,803	8,587
Massachusetts	7,813	8,163

"KID" DE MUNN IS
THE LOCAL FAVORITE
FOR THE CONTEST

Clever Little Belvidere Boxer is Reported to Be in Fine Fettle for His Match.

While Harry Forbes and Jimmy Walsh, the Belvidere boys, are the main attraction of the coming boxing contests under the auspices of the Janesville Athletic club on Monday evening next, with big black Jack Johnson scheduled as referee, the eight-round glove contest between Kid De Munn and "Spike" Kelly of Chicago weighing in at 145 pounds, promises to be the most interesting "go" on the evening's card.

De Munn is from Belvidere and is well thought of in his home town. He is a young boxer and mighty clever, using good head work and standing lots of hard punches. His opponent is a shifty little Chicago chap who is fast coming to the front and promises to be one of the topnotchers some day. Both boys have worked hard for the present contest and it should prove likely enough to suit anybody.

The curtain-raiser between "Battling" Horst of Chicago and "Kid" Mott, a local aspirant for ring honors, will probably be a screen and give the most genuine enjoyment of the evening to the fans who like to see matters mixed up frequently and often. Walter Beckersall of Chicago is to referee this bout and the "Kid" De Munn and Kelly contest.

TIGERS IN VICTORY AND STAY IN LEAD

Win Two Games From Giants Last Night and Have Good Margin Ahead of Nearest Rivals.

In two games in the bowling match at Hockett's alleys last night the Tigers proved to be better than the Giants who were able only to take the opening session. The Tigers still remain at the head of the league and are several games ahead of the Cubs and Naps who are tied for the second place.

Goal of the Tigers rolled the high score last night 180 being the best that was recorded. Scores are given below:

CARDINALS EASILY
WIN FROM MONROE

Local Basketball Team Enjoys Honors of Southern Wisconsin Championship.

Defeating the aspiring Monroe Cardinals by a score of 20 to 22, the Janesville Cardinals are now champions of the southern part of the state. The accomplishment of this honor proved an easy task for the local players in the contest at Monroe last night. At the start the Cardinals took the lead and although their opponents played with a fierce determination to win, the superior basket-throwing ability of the Janesville players and their effective guarding proved the downfall of their opponents. Langdon was the star for the Janesville team and was credited with six field baskets, although he played in the guard position. Summaries of the game are as follows:

Janesville	Monroe
Duffy	Cosman
Cunningham	Tilley
Hennings	Dedrick
Langdon	Collentine
Booth	Kundert

Field goals: Langdon, 6; Hennings, 4; Cunningham, 2; Duffy, 2; Booth, 1; Monroe: Cosman, 4; Dedrick, 2; Kelley, 1; Collentine, 1; Kundert, 1.

Free throws: Dedrick, 4.

High School Game.

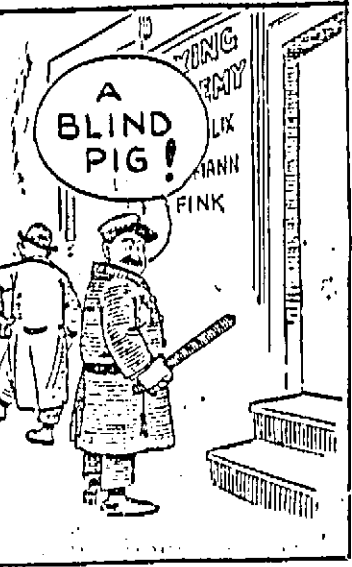

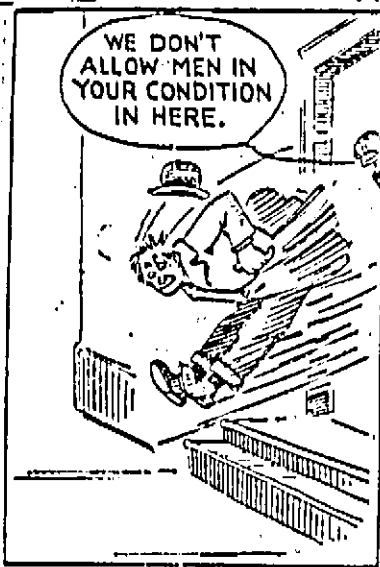

Janesville and Janesville high school basketball teams will meet here this evening for an important game. The local team is confident of victory and the only thing in doubt seems to be the margin by which they will win. Coach McMurray will send in the record of the local team to the Appleton management as soon as possible and the schedule for elimination games will be received. Janesville's chances to take part in the tournament are considered exceptionally bright.

New York Nationals.

The New York Nationals, an aggregation of basketball players supposed to have a national reputation, and who have made an extended tour of Wisconsin and Minnesota, will meet the Lakota Cardinals in a contest here tomorrow night. The game promises to be full of thrills and the Cardinals will undoubtedly play the best game of the season.

Individuality.

Every human being is intended to have a character of his own to be what no other is, to do what no other can.—Channing.

MAY SEND TEAM TO BOWLING MATCHES

Local Bowlers Talking of Organizing a Five Man Team to Compete at Chicago Tournament.

There is some talk among the bowlers of the city of organizing a five man team to enter the big national bowling tournament to be held in Chicago next month. Janesville has some excellent bowlers and the five best men in the Hockett alley league could easily be organized into a good five that would do credit to Janesville at the big meeting. The men would have to be unpolished to enter the contest.

Work and Worry.

"Worry wears out more people than work does," said the ready made philosopher. "Of course it does," replied Mr. Growcher, "for the simple reason that so many of us would rather put in our time worrying about work than doing it."

PUBLIC SCHOOLS IN PATRIOTIC PROGRAM

Washington's Birthday Celebrated by Schools With Grand Army Post Assisting.

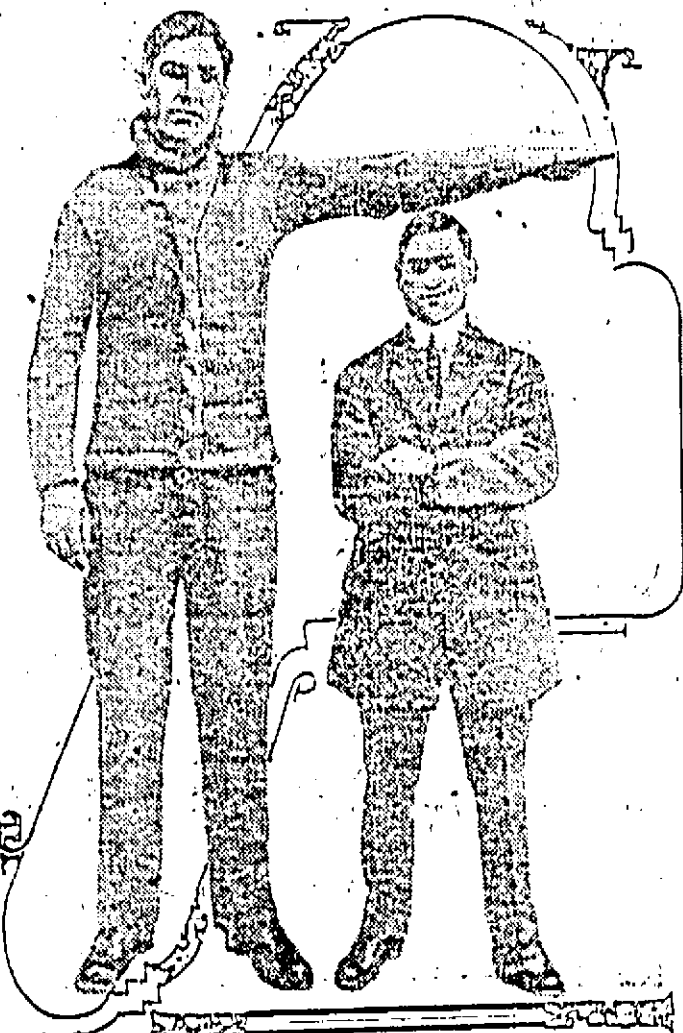

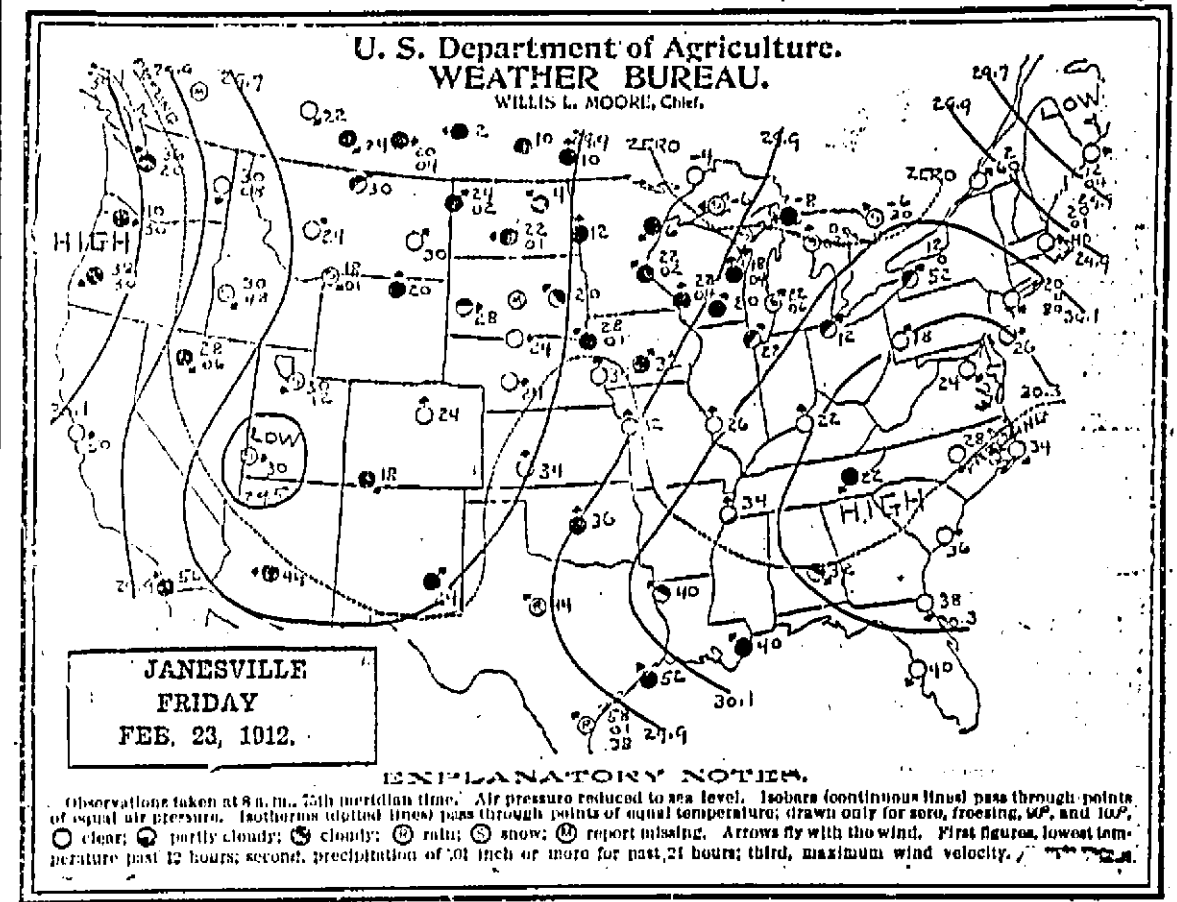

Milton, Feb. 23.—The public schools assisted by the local Grand Army Post gave an interesting Washington's birthday and patriotic program at the High School this afternoon consisting of songs, recitations and exercises by the pupils and talks and very interesting reminiscences by members of the G. A. R. The school orchestra played three patriotic selections under the direction of Roland Maxson. The following members of Hamilton Post addressed the audience on War-time subjects: Commander J. E. Langhorne, H. R. Osborn, G. H. Hood and J. H. Babcock. The W. R. C. attended in a body and the packed assembly gave closest attention while the boys of '61 lived over the days of the rebellion. Through the kindness of Mrs. W. K. Davis a large silver medal given by Congress to one of the sailors who fought on "Old Ironsides" when she destroyed the Guerriere was exhibited together with a letter written by Washington from Mount Vernon March 25th, 1792; the children were greatly interested in this faded and valuable quill-written letter by the Father of Our Country.

Brotherhood Meeting.

The Milton Men's Brotherhood met at the home of J. P. Whitford last. Among the orders of business transacted was the starting of a movement to supply N. O. Moore, Sr., with a suitable camera to take with him next month to Africa. It is impossible to make a totally satisfactory report of any investigation of existing conditions in our missionary field there without the aid of pictures to accompany the descriptions, etc. Mr. W. K. Davis offered to furnish half of the expense of such a camera, and the Brotherhood will pay half of the balance and probably one of the Ladies' Circle will be given the privilege of meeting the rest. Rev. W. L. Hurdick of Alfred, will accompany Mr. Moore and assist in the investigation.

Postmaster Entertains.

At noon on Washington's 180th anniversary, by invitation of W. W. Clark, one dozen people put care to one side and gathered about the table

"COWBOY JESS" WILLARD JACK WHITE

ANOTHER GIANT WHITE HOPE DISCOVERED IN KANSAS.

Chicago, Ill.—A new "White Hope" for and former fighter, discovered has leaped upon the horizon and "Cowboy Jess" Willard when touring Kansas recently and brought him in proportion to his gigantic size, weighing in Chicago from St. Louis. He should prove a real contender for the championship honors. Charley about 280 pounds, and is well proportioned, the well known local wrestler. His real name is Jess Willard.

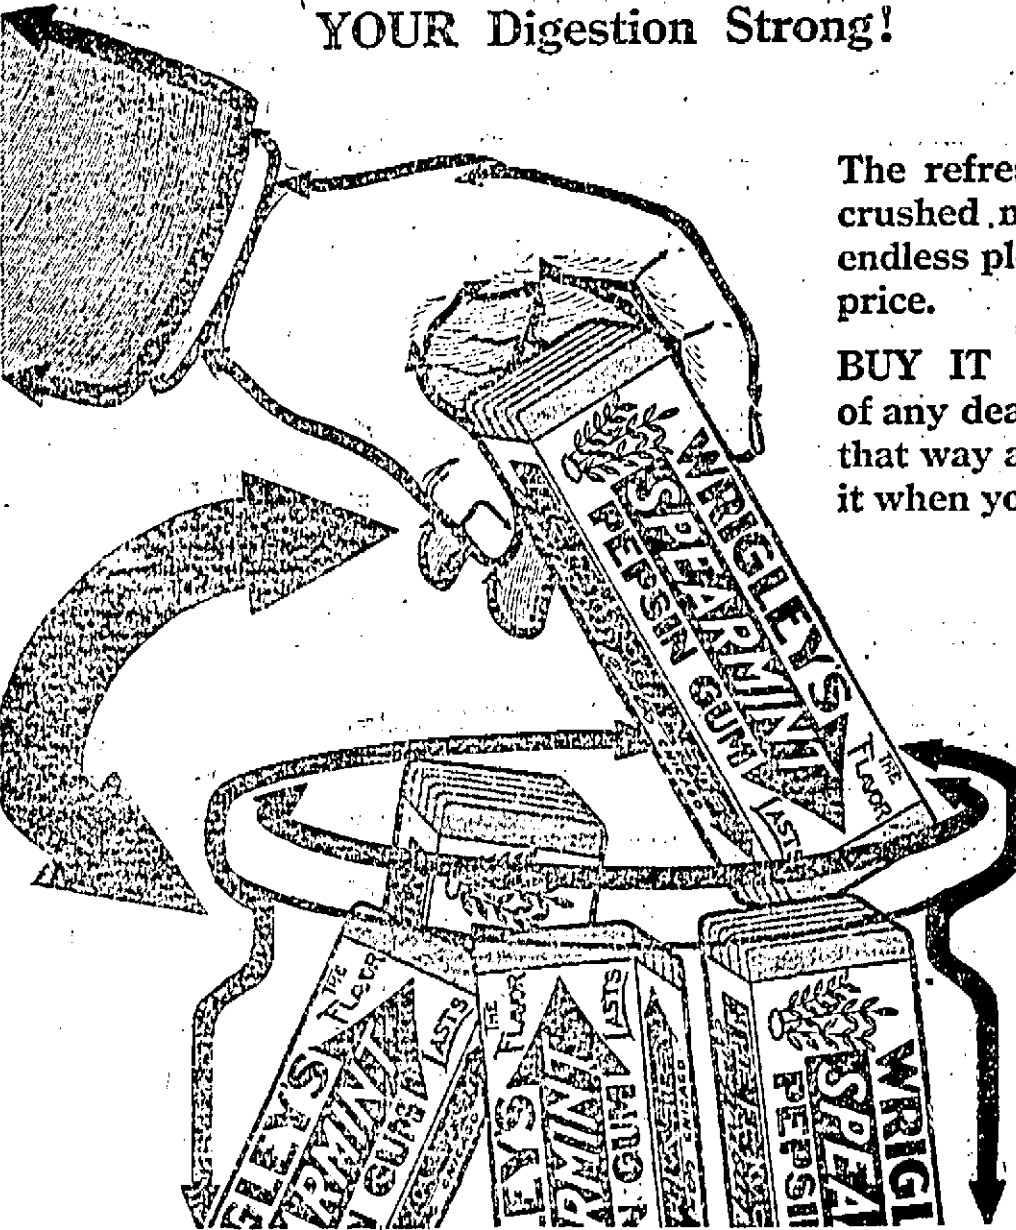

CAMPBELL'S SPEED WORKS TO HIS DOWNFALL.

Pittsburgh.—Also Vincent Campbell, fear of a collision with Campbell by other fielders. "This game speed kept him from being a great hitter," said the pitcher Mordecai Brown. Fred Clark was never enthusiastic over Campbell, who first broke into league work as a catcher. He was switched to the outfield because of his hitting ability and his speed. His natural qualifications for a great baseball player, but is like an untamed dog in a hunt. He just knew the game was there and he did nothing else.

CALLS IT ANARCHY.

There is much comment, both favorable and against, the recent address made by Colonel Roosevelt at the Columbus, Ohio, convention. The New York World, Independent democratic, calls it anarchy in plain language. Doubtless the editor does not fear being made a member of the ex-president's famous liar's club or he would not have dared write as he did. He said in part:

"It is another way to saying that the powerful majority ought always to be absolute and that the minority has no right which the majority is bound to respect. It is transplanting to the United States the theory upon which South American republics have chosen to administer their turbulent affairs. It is Mr. Roosevelt's formal invitation to revolution and anarchy."

The New York Times said: "Mr. Roosevelt's address removes him from the republican party and makes it impossible that the nomination to be made at Chicago could go to him. From beginning to end there is not a republican doctrine or profession of faith in the speech, but there is throughout a bold and defiant renunciation of the principles of that party. Mr. Roosevelt forswears allegiance to the party that made him president, and now takes the field as its enemy and destroyer."

MID-WINTER FAIR.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week a revival of the old mid-winter fair will be held under the auspices of the Commercial club at the West Side rink. It promises to be a most interesting exhibition and the farmers throughout the county will find it well worth their time to attend. Not to attend, simply, but to enter some of their farm products in competition. The prizes are donated by the Janesville merchants and are well worth competing for. It is a county affair, not simply a Janesville exhibition, and only farmers and their families can enter the lists for prizes. Secretary Lane of the Commercial club has worked diligently on the fair and it promises to be a huge success.

STREET COMMISSIONER WILKINS.

Street Commissioner Wilkins has demonstrated that he is the right man for the job during the past cold weather. If he was given the proper sort of encouragement and backing by the officials having the matter in charge he would be able to accomplish much more than he has been able to thus far. He is not afraid to work himself and this adds a good man into the department which is really one of the most important in the city government.

MANY ASPIRANTS.

The lists are still open for candidates for mayor and commissioners, and many are taking advantage of the opportunity to bring their names before the public for consideration at the primaries. While but two candidates for mayor and four for commissioners will go on the regular election ballot, the larger the field the better the selection can be made. It is not a question of ward politics now and the best men will be named by the city as a whole.

Superintendent Cary is still telling truths about the University that the University officials had hard to explain. Some day there will be an investigation of affairs at the state institute of learning that will disclose facts that will surprise the tax-payers.

Janesville is entertaining the state librarians and the sessions are most interesting. The public, not only librarians, have an opportunity of listening to some very interesting talks and many have availed themselves of the opportunity.

So Colombia decided that its minister was not very diplomatic when he said that Secretary Knox would not be a welcome visitor at their capital. Some men talk too much at times. Remember how Mr. Crane never reached China?

An American visiting in Germany was taken for a spy and for several hours underwent a searching examination with the walls of a prison looming before him. He escaped, however, without any international dispute being raised.

Weather men tell us that spring will be here before we know it. Not any too soon for the coal piles and the weary backs that have shoveled snow, chopped ice and coal all winter.

President Taft is going to answer the Roosevelt speech in some of his many engagements in the near future. The Colonel left himself open to adverse critics certainly.

The price on buying seats in the United States senate is rather high for the average man to hope to ever wear a toga of the hundred thousand dollar cost.

It is lots of fun planning the summer garden work even if there is snow and ice all over the plot of ground you intend to cultivate.

A postman walks about fourteen miles a day and at that a lot of people who are expecting letters do not get any.

Even Houston's commission form of government could not stop the ravages of that seven million dollar fire.

Colonel Waterman is still talking about his former friend Wilson as though he did not like him.

A GREEN HORN IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, February 1st.

Dear Editor:

I am doing just as you told me to, and am stopping at the Willard Hotel. I stopped there three times yesterday and twice the day before.

Mrs. Willard, I believe, is a very excellent cook, and they have jelly roll on the table every Sunday. Of course, I have been invited to a good many state dinners since I have been here, but people naturally don't go to state dinners for the purpose of eating; that is to say, most people don't. I did, but I soon found that eating was not figured in as a part of the program. People go to state dinners to talk and to see a person who has had nothing on his stomach but his unlaid out for two or three days and goes to one of these dinners with the expectation of getting a meal, is apt to be disappointed. They put on a course, leaving it on long enough for you to admire the dishes, and then yank it off again. Anybody who tries to grab a spoonful of soup or an olive or wafer is apt to collide with the waiter and get a broken arm or a sprained wrist. After a course is removed they talk until the next comes. There is a story here of a gentleman from Arkansas who starved to death between the entrance and the salad, but I don't believe it, because I don't believe any gentleman ever came from Arkansas. One thing I cannot understand is why the society women here wear such expensive gowns to dinner parties. When they sit down at the table there isn't a bit of the gown in sight. I believe a good many of these elegant bareback performers were recruited from Washington society, but of course that is another question, and we are wandering from our subject, which is that of the expense account. Our expense account up to this moment has been as follows:

Railroad fare .....	$17 15
Tips on the train .....	204 75
Breakfast .....	1 00
Tip to waiter .....	72 50
Tips for tea water .....	2 00
Dinner .....	2 00

Tip to chambermaid .....	05
Street car fare .....	1 00
Tip to conductor who stopped car .....	05
One good cigar .....	25
Tip to cigar clerk .....	15
Meals fourth day .....	40
Meals fifth day (no tips) .....	05
Moving picture show .....	12 75
Money loaned to broken down statesmen in 25c installments .....	17 50
Tips to former body servants of George Washington .....	314 11

Total.....$314 11

You will note by the above schedule that I have wasted $1.30 on food. That will not occur again. Please send $300 more for tips and one package of concentrated-malted-milk-food-tablets, and I will try and get along for a day or two longer.

PRESS COMMENT.

Still in the Dark.

The colonel failed to come to the point in his much heralded speech at Columbus. With the whole country more or less agog for the expected pronouncement on his alleged candidacy, he floated into a disquisition on those insufferable bores, the Initiative, referendum and recall; strung some pearls of familiar quotations from his favorite author, Theodore Roosevelt, about "big business" and our old friend, the "square deal;" and, on the whole, exhibited a rather straddling and diluted "progressivism" that will comfort Pinchot without alienating George W. Perkins.

As for the tariff, he intimated rather obscurely that he stood where he stood before.

To the best of our recollections of his eloquent messages, he stood pat on the Dingley tariff, with one hand on Uncle Joe's shoulder and the other on Aldrich's, if he really stood anywhere at all.

But the point is that the colonel failed to come to the point, and tell the country whether or not when he said "under no circumstances" he had his fingers crossed and meant "under some circumstances."

For the present, "Amen" to Perkins, Pinchot and Co. sticks in his throat.

The Way to Fame.

San Chito Leader: The New York Sun refers to Walter Houser Pumphrey. Well, Walter has put himself on the map, and has climbed to the height of getting a half column in the New York Sun's first page, this coming about by his calling Roosevelt a traitor.

Splitting the Hair.

Beloit News: We note that Chief Quailman will not allow boxing matches at the Wilson. And yet they are going to let "The Devil" dispute on the local stage. Can boxing be worse than his satanic majesty?

W. J. B. Out Done.

Marquette Eagle Star: William Jennings Bryan used to be considered something as an advertiser. Compared this season, however, with his great competitor, the Oyster Bay Colonel, he has been backed completely off boards.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

MOTHERS.

A distinguished lecturer has been telling college girls that the "old fashioned" mother is out of date and useless.

Also—

A certain editor makes it his business to lament the fact as he sees it, that the "new fashioned" mother is being educated away from motherhood.

Now—

Does the mother fashion change? Is there an old fashioned and new fashioned style of mothers?

Certainly not.

The mother instinct is the same yesterday, today and forever. Wherever a child is born there is born in the heart of the mother of that child a love that never wavers.

There are unnatural fathers, all too many, but an unnatural mother is extremely rare, almost unknown. Fathers will neglect and run away from their children. No mother willingly abandons her child.

The "old fashioned" mother?

All mothers are old fashioned in the respect that all of them will do everything and forego everything for the sake of their children.

The "new fashioned" mother?

Every mother is new fashioned. Doctors and nurses say that every mother, whether she lives in a mansion or washes for a living, is anxious and quick to learn the hygiene that will protect and save her baby.

Education does not spoil mothers.

Do you know that the records show that not one of the hundreds of girls graduated from Vassar college has ever figured in a divorce court?

On the other hand—

Nancy Hanks Lincoln never heard of Hoon or the germ theory, but she was one of the most excellent and successful mothers the world knows about.

It did not hurt the mothers of a former generation that they were denied the means of intellectual culture, nor does it hurt, but rather helps, the young mother of today who enjoys these advantages.

Mother love never changes.

Every mother everywhere will give to her child all the devotion and help that are within her.

Fable Worth Pondering Over.

Good Mr. Wallapus stood at the window Sunday afternoon idly watching the bad little boys playing baseball on a vacant lot. "The Sabbath breaking little wretches," he said "They ought to be arrested, every one of them. There should be a rigid ordinance against this desecration of the Sabbath." Then he rang for the chauffeur. "Jim," he said, "get out the car and we'll take a little spin. It's a beautiful day and I'm tired of staying in the house." This fable teaches.

Roman Cookery.

The striking features of cookery among the rich Romans were: multiplicity of dishes, the destruction and waste of vast quantities of material, and the absolute disguising of flavors by means of extraordinary combinations of highly seasoned sauces and gravies.

SUCCEEDS ADJUTANT GENERAL AINSWORTH

Washington, D. C. As an outcome of the fight started by adjutant general Ainsworth, he has been relieved of all duty and Col. H. P. McCatin has taken charge of his work.

The investigation into the charges of the adjutant general are progressing slowly.

THE SNAPSHOT CAMERA GIRL

New York, City.—The latest find of the society girl is to carry in her handbag a tiny camera loaded with film, which she can use instantly, and if necessary without her friends even knowing that she is recording their actions, as after use it can be slipped back unnoticed into the bag.

Grave Attempts.

A kindly gentleman, addressing some children, advised them to remember the "three E's"—Edward, Empire and Entirety. This reminds one of a story told of a former mayor of Birmingham, who apologized to an audience for his late arrival on account of another engagement. "I am not ambiguous," said he. A friendly alderman, anxious to prevent misunderstanding, chimed in with, "Of course, what his worship meant to say was that it was impossible for him to be amphibious."—London Optician.

The Governing Powers.

Everyone may see that a man is governed by the principles he adopts, be they ever so false, and that all his knowledge and reasoning favor his principles; for innumerable considerations tending to support them readily present themselves to his mind, and thus he is confirmed in fallacies. He, therefore, who assumes as a principle that nothing is to be believed until it is seen and understood can never believe; for spiritual and celestial things are neither seen with the eyes nor grasped by the imagination.—Swedenborg.

The Retort Political.

Jerome S. McWade, the millionaire collector, said at a political banquet in Duluth: "I see by the papers that a lady in high official life recently got down her position as a servant's wife—explaining that her husband was a servant of the people. Well, that reminds me," Mr. McWade smiled. "That reminds me," he said, "of a stump speaker who shouted from his stump: 'We politicians are the slaves of the public!' 'No wonder, then,' growled a man in the front row, 'that the whole world is in favor of slavery's abolition!'"

H. A. PALMER HEADS MAIL MEN OF COUNTY

Elected to Succeed A. L. Gridley, At-Janesville Man, Rural Carriers Met Here Yesterday.

H. A. Palmer of this city was elected president of the Rock County Rural Mail Carriers at their meeting in the Janesville post office yesterday afternoon. He succeeded A. L. Gridley, also a Janesville man. Mr. Palmer carried mail on Route No. 3. The incumbents of all the other offices were re-elected. They are: J. C. Anderson of Milton, vice-president; D. C. Perkins of Heloit, secretary; and Mr. Willett of Edgerton, treasurer. A. L. Gridley, D. C. Perkins, J. C. Anderson, Mr. Willett and Fred Persons were named as delegates to the state convention of rural carriers to be held at Portage in June.

Twenty-four of the forty odd carriers in the county attended the semi-annual meeting held here yesterday. It was voted to hold the next meeting of the association at Heloit on Labor Day.

FAREWELL PARTY GIVEN AT THE GRUNDY HOME

Forty Neighbors Spent Evening at Cards and Presented Gift of Fine Rocking Chair.

A farewell party was given Joseph Grundy, Miss Grundy and C. Johnson at the Grundy home last evening by forty friends and neighbors who were served supper there and had a merry time at cards and other games. C. T. Wright, on their behalf, presented a fine rocking chair as a mark of their esteem and good will. Mr. Grundy, Miss Grundy and Mr. Johnson will soon move to Janesville.

MANY INTERESTED IN FAIR OF NEXT WEEK

REVIVAL OF THE OLD FASHIONED MID-WINTER FAIR PROMISES TO BE MOST SUCCESSFUL.

FINE PRIZES OFFERED

Janessville Merchants Have Donated Costly Premiums for the Different Exhibits.

In former years when the Mid-Winter Fair was an annual occurrence, when farmers from all parts of the country brought their exhibits in and competed for prizes, enjoyed the show and had a good time themselves, the event was looked forward to with enthusiasm. For some reason the holding of the exhibition was dropped and became one of the talked of events of the past. This year, however, is to be revived and under the direction of Secretary Lane of the Commercial club it promises to be in the parlance of the advertisement, "bigger, better, grander, more elaborate than ever."

The plans set for this exhibit are for the 20th, 21st and 22nd of next week. The Janessville merchants are anxious to see the fair and are offering prizes to be awarded to the exhibitors in the various classes. The Commercial club has divided their prizes so that there will be no confusion as to the proper classification when the entries arrive. The entries must all be made before February 28th and must all be in place at the West Side rink by noon of Thursday the 29th and cannot be removed until Saturday noon.

For the sake of convenience the exhibits have been divided into different classes. The grain and tobacco department includes all sorts of grains and of tobacco classification. Then there is the vegetable department, the dairy department, the domestic department which includes all sorts of exhibits, strictly a woman's work department even including prizes for children's work. The culinary department, while for women's art is probably as interesting to men as women and includes all sorts of good things to eat.

The competition is restricted to farmers and members of his family, and citizens of Janessville are barred from competition. All entries are free, no admission will be charged to see the exhibit. All grain and tobacco must be of the 1911 crop and shall not be artificially bleached, clipped, polished or otherwise manipulated. All the entries are to be scored by experts in each department and special lectures and concerts as well as other amusements are being planned for the successful exhibit. Secretary Lane said today, "Everything points to a most successful exhibit. Already I have had numerous applications and all blanks and information will be gladly given to all who apply at the office of the Commercial club at room 411, Johnson building. I am sending out thousands of premium lists and expect to see the big hall filled with exhibits."

The following is the list of premiums offered in the various classes:

LAWRENCE STRIKE MAY CONTINUE ALL SUMMER.

Two recent pictures taken of the Lawrence strike. One showing a man at the top of the building, solid line of state militia preventing another view of the mob getting ready to rush upon the state guards.

Lawrence, Mass.—For the first time the strike of the textile operatives of the whole city now really looks as if it would be a long one. For only one sign of it, the strike committee of I. W. W. has voted to stay out until Joseph J. Eitor is released from prison. This may mean an all-summer strike.

Both sides to the dispute, strikers and mill owners, have re-entered from any discussion of the strike. The mill owners, according to a telegram received by the strike committee from Chairman Eitor of the Legislative committee, have reiterated their former determination to deal only with their own operatives. The strike committee replied with spirit that they would deal only as a committee of the whole, with a committee of the whole this city now really looks as if it would be a long one. For only one sign of it, the strike committee of I. W. W. has voted to stay out until Joseph J. Eitor is released from prison. This may mean an all-summer strike.

Incidentally, it is very probable that two things may happen within a week or two. The mills are threatening to close, as the most drastic medicine their owners can deal out to the strikers. The strike committee, which has heretofore held open meetings, is threatening to keep the reporters out; this is because the chief testimony yesterday against Eitor and Glavinetti was from two reporters and because the reports in certain newspapers have hurt the strikers' cause, in their belief.

"We have, however, problems of a serious nature confronting us for solution, and doubtless they will increase as time goes on. We, as people, have tolerated the doing of things which must be undone or made right and not condoned; we have at times not too much store by mere material success and judged as of minor consequence things which broaden and elevate and ennoble a nation; we have made compromise with things of evil import. We have, at times, been untruthful of the rights of others as we have hurried on to the realization of ambitious plans, and, in our indifference to the demands of good citizenship, we have been guilty of or acquiesced in a course of conduct that has given rise to sudden expressions of an unrest to which we cannot afford to be unconcerned listeners; for unchecked, unrest is likely to breed discontent and discontent in its turn disorder. And, unless we frankly recognize this, we shall have no reasonable hope of correcting the conditions which arouse, if they do not altogether justify those expressions, and which are a menace not only to our continuing prosperity but to our self-respect and our reputation in the world. Again and again, as time goes on, in obedience to popular clamor, we shall be tempted to enact statutes unjust to labor or capital and not representing reflection and conviction, or statutes which are fully certain to be incapable of enforcement and to bring the administration of the law into contempt. We shall be tempted to hesitate and temporize concerning things demanding prompt and courageous action for the public welfare. Again and again, we shall stand perplexed in which direction to go when we shall have come to the crossroads of public duty and mere party expediency or even self-interest; one way shall be so shut in by doubt that we shall hesitate even to take a single step forward and upward. But there is one thing above all things to which we may cling with a certain faith—that so long as we keep with ourselves a covenant to return to and abide by the principles of Washington's Farewell Address so long as his character shall be remembered and revered by us, so long as we shall set his life and his devotion before us as the best type and example of American citizenship to admire and emulate, this country cannot falter in true progress nor in the end come short of its high mission in the world. For then, during all times to come, we shall have for our political guidance as a people the inspiration of his presence, which will be to us what, for the moral guidance of men, the Word of the Lord was to the Psalmist of old—a lamp unto the feet and a light unto the path."

THE THEATERS

"EXCUSE ME" TONIGHT
The attraction at the Myers Theatre tonight will be Henry W. Savage's production of "Excuse Me," which the author has described as a "Pulitzer Prize play."

Mr. Hughes, whose name is familiar to theatergoers as the author of several successful plays has in "Excuse Me" hit upon a unique idea in the matter of locale, all the scenes being laid in the interior of a vestibule train, and the action describes a transcontinental journey, starting from Chicago, with stopovers at St. Paul, St. Louis, and New York, as it passed through the den, Utah and Reno, Nevada. A novel and amusing love story is unfolded during the progress of the journey, and, in addition, there are plots and counterplots, involving a series of rollicking episodes.

The play was staged by George Marion, that master craftsman whose name is so closely allied with Mr. Savage's productions. The intricate detail attended on the uniquely constructed scenes have, from all accounts, been given the greatest attention, and Mr. Savage has produced a production in his proverbial elaborate manner.

"THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER"
Laden with the spoils of two theatrical seasons and the victor in hundreds of encounters with critics and audiences North, East, South and West, "The Chocolate Soldier," Oscar Strauss' peerless musical version of George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man," and The Whittier Opera Company of Chocolate Soldiers, will march into this city on Tuesday evening, March 5th at the Myers Theatre to gain the allegiance of the theatergoers of Jamesville with the blarney of their songs and the charms of their adventure.

Coming unheralded from Europe two years ago, "The Chocolate Soldier" gained an instantaneous victory over the hearts of theatergoers weary of the worthlessness of cheap musical shows, redeemed the name of light opera in this country, and is still disseminating its rapturous melodies far and wide throughout the land. The fortune and misfortune of the warrior who lives on chocolate drops makes himself the hero of all the Bulgarian women and the hero of his fellow-warriors, is the theme of the libretto, while the Strauss music changes constantly in mood to reflect and interpret the dramatic value of each situation. The lyric humor of "The Tale of a Coat," the vibrating passion of "My Hero," the recurring theme of the scene, the satirical playfulness of "The Chocolate Soldier" and the brilliant beauty of the surrounding melodies have elevated this Gayer of Vienna's operas above all the fellows of its decade.

Every audience, every occasion of detail, without adding to the vividness and picturesque of the scenes has been included in the production of Mr. Whittier. A special orchestra of twenty picked musicians accompanies the organization to negotiate the intricacies of the score. The cast of characters include Francis Hewitt, Emma Lewis, Lotta Galt, Roy Parverson, J. Russell Jewell, Olive Randolph, Nelson Riley, J. P. McDougal and George Ogley.

When the Chief Executive of the United States visits one of the big war ships of the navy, the President's triple seven "lines of fighting" ships. The picture taking apparatus was very close to the principal events of the big naval demonstration making views of Rear Admiral Osterhaus, in command; other officers, guns firing, the biggest battleships in action, submarines, the President's and Secretary of the Navy's inspection of the fleet, the review as the mighty legion passed out to sea, and other interesting incidents.

Mr. Howe makes his reproduction "Our Navy because it is the most complete exhibition of the fighting forces of the nation ever made in animated scenes. Not one first class battleship is missing in the parade.

New wonders of the Grand River Canyon, Colorado; superb views showing the adventures of three Alpine climbers in ascending majestic peaks to points above the clouds; the latest models from Paris; the flight of a hydroplane through water and air, an elaborate series revealing the splendor of art and history in Rome, Pisa and Florence; the marble quarries of Carrara; daring Italian horsemanship; and hunting by aeroplane are but few of the many other scenes of vital interest showing the very latest achievements of human endeavor.

The World Famous Lyman Howe Pictures will be seen at Myers Theatre March 26 and 27; Matinee Wednesday March 27.

SERVANT IN THE HOUSE.
A long engagement in New York does not necessarily prove the worth of a play. That city's judgment of a play is often flagrantly bad in estimating dramatic value. But when the metropolitan verdict is pronounced correct from cities as widely separated from New York as London, Berlin, Chicago, Washington, Minneapolis, Denver, San Francisco, Baltimore and Los Angeles, the big town may be said to have spoken truly. "The Servant in the House," which will be seen at the Myers Theatre on Tuesday, March 12, under the direction of Gaskill and Mac Vitty and with Henry Miller's original production and Hugo H. Koch in the title role.

Indeed, so far as the press is concerned these other cities went. New York was better. Whereas some of the illustrious papers in the metropolis could not appreciate truth and subtlety of this drama of love and brotherhood, not a single critic in the other places mentioned failed to do its full justice as well as its dramatic construction and dramatic intensity. Undoubtedly "The Servant in the House" is a drama for all people and all ages; for its truths are universal and eternal, and its emotions and passions are those human beings have had and will have until the end of time.

ORFORDVILLE
Orfordville, Feb. 23.—Twenty-seven married ladies, friends of Miss Iva Setzer, gave her a delightful luncheon at the home of Mrs. S. E. Anderson, at the home of Mrs. S. E. Anderson. It was a complete surprise to Miss Setzer. A pleasant social time was enjoyed. A refreshing lunch of coffee, cake, nuts, and other delicacies was served. Miss Setzer received many beautiful and useful presents of drawn work, centerpieces, counter-table covers, towels, china dishes, Orfordville's popular and accomplished young ladies and a host of friends join in giving her their best wishes.

The Rev. O. J. Kvale went to Madison Monday, being invited to attend the meeting of the Lutheran church, which convened for the purpose of adjusting the differences and reunifying.

LINK AND PIN EFFECTS OF SAFETY CAMPAIGN PRAISED

Milwaukee Sunday Paper Praises Work and Advice Application to all Industries.

Safety Committees on a number of towns are busy now and the work on the Baltimore and Ohio especially has been very satisfactory, although in the local Northwestern yards the committees have not been actively engaged in this work for some time except as a local organization. The regular monthly meeting of all the leaders of the Division have not been held for several months or if they have the local representatives have not been asked to attend. These meetings were an important part of movement which took a long step toward the prevention of accident and death on the railroads. Men from all over this division gathered together and discussed questions of great importance along this line and they were able in this way to profit by the experience of other men. It was these meetings which held the committees together and which helped the leaders keep up to date in the matter of safety appliances and methods of accident prevention.

In one of the recent Sunday papers from Milwaukee an article with illustrations upon the work which has been done and is being done by the Baltimore and Ohio Committees and it also makes the statement that this road found out that eighty per cent of the accidents both in railroads and factories are preventable. This has also been clearly demonstrated on the Northwestern which started the movement.

Every monthly report of injuries and deaths which has been posted since the work of the safety committees was begun has shown a remarkable decrease in the numbers in almost every department of the railroad.

In the report for January of this year the totals were not as much smaller than last years as they have been in previous months and this may be due to the slackening up of the work which was so well begun. Among the employees two men were killed and 107 injured in train service in this last month. In the switching service one man was killed and 64 were injured. None were killed in the station service but 37 were injured. Four truckmen were killed and 30 more received injuries. Twenty bridge men were injured and three killed. Although no one was killed in the shops last month 117 received injuries. One man was killed and 44 injured in other kinds of employment. The total for January, 1912, was 8 killed and 533 injured, which matches up very well with the 12 killed and 632 injured although this margin is not as large as it has been in other months before.

Two hundred and eighteen of these 533 injuries were unavoidable, which leaves a total of 115 who were injured by accidents which might have been avoided. It is this number that the safety committee has been trying to reduce during the past year. In 1911 there were 23 employees injured through the carelessness of some body else, only 10 suffering at other hands during 1912, which is a very appreciable difference.

ENGINEERS AND FIREMEN RECEIVE ASSIGNMENTS
Assignments were posted today at the roundhouse for the following positions for both firemen and engineers: Firemen, 948-949, Milwaukee, vacated by Gorman-T. R. Alcock; suburban run No. 8—E. J. Malack; suburban run No. 37—A. Weltman; 6:00 a. m. emergency—O. E. Schulte; and three dispatchers at Milwaukee—C. J. Doyle, W. M. Owens, and M. Treblouk.

Engineers given positions were as follows: Suburban run No. 11—C. Drake; suburban run No. 68—C. L. Throp; two 6:00 p. m. work trains—E. F. Fitzgerald, and G. F. Bortsch; work extra, Milwaukee various—J. M. Stanton; 6:00-6:30 a. m. Cole; 187-282—C. Findlay; and 511-512—C. Burdison.

J. C. Diener, who has been roadmaster of the Wisconsin Division for a number of years, has been pensioned and C. F. King has been appointed to his place. Mr. Diener has made friends of all whom he has had under him and he is sorry to see him leave the service although they are glad for his sake.

Car Foreman Whitehead and his assistant, Schumacker were in Chicago yesterday for the day.

William Sullivan has given up his position as engine number painter for a few days and is making a business trip to Chicago.

Boller Maker Arthur Graff is laying off for a few days on account of illness.

The car department was reduced considerably yesterday on account of the legal holiday.

A bulletin posted the other day announced the fact that the shop and maintenance force will laid off for the rest of the week, except those needed to make the running repairs.

None of the time freighters arrived in Jamesville yesterday from the south owing to the heavy fall of snow. Trains from the northwest also were delayed considerably. No. 516 was one hour and twenty minutes late this morning and No. 514 was three hours and forty minutes late.

Switthman Davey has left for Davenport, Ia., for a visit with his brother Conductor Daniel Davey of that city.

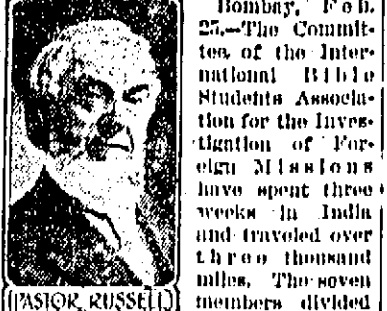

Hobbes have begun their spring jaunting already and the pest of the railroads is again on the warpath. Although there are not very many as yet, they are getting more numerous and the good weather keeps up and can be seen at almost any time, days, pounding the snow town and waiting for free transportation.

PASTOR RUSSELL'S ADIEU TO INDIA.

Found Large Hospitals For Deceitful Animals.

Other Observations on India, but No Reference to Missions—Foreign Investigation Committee Will Report Findings in Hippodrome Upon Its Return to New York.

Bombay, Feb. 23.—The Committee of the International Bible Students Association for the investigation of Foreign Missions have spent three weeks in India and traveled over three thousand miles. The seven members divided the work amongst them at the various stopping points and will co-labor in the report. The committee will report its findings at a meeting to be held in the New York Hippodrome on March 31. A summary of today's discourse of Pastor Russell in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium is as follows:

(PASTOR RUSSELL)

I had a great interest in your land and its people before coming to your shores, but my interest has been greatly increased by what I have witnessed during the past three weeks in India—not only in your largest cities, but also in your towns, villages and agricultural districts. As there are no other extremes in the world so great as between the tops of your Himalaya mountains and the wash of your great strands, 20,000 feet below them, so likewise there can be found no greater contrast socially and financially than between your wealthy princes and your poverty-stricken lower castes. Although such contrasts are deplorable we have no remedy to suggest, except the Divine one—the establishment of Messiah's Kingdom.

General Instincts of India's Wealthy.
Although I have remarked of your hundreds of millions of hopelessly poor, I have not overlooked the fact that some of your wealthy have shown that they are not without generous instincts. Many of your merchant princes have evidently given largely to the charitable institutions, notably in Bombay, large animal hospitals having been provided for decrepit chickens, donkeys, etc.

However we may consider such benefactions, in view of human need and suffering, we cannot overlook the fact that sympathy is there, only waiting for the proper direction, which Messiah's Kingdom will shortly give.

Our forefathers saw the height of God's love for the holy angels and its condescension to the sinfulness of men, but they did not see its depths. They did not see that the Redemption accomplished by Jesus is ultimately to reach down to and embrace the very humblest and most degraded of humankind, dead as well as alive. How the precious Scriptures which tell of Jesus as the Savior of the world, as well as of the Church, escaped our notice, who can explain?

But surely glad are we that now we can see clearly that the Redeemer is a Propitiation for our sins, the Church's sins, and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world.

This fuller appreciation of the lengths and breadths and heights and depths of love Divine is coming to Christian people as a benediction from heaven. Just at the time when many are diligently repudiating the Bible and its God as unworthy of belief. The true view of God's Word we have intimated, namely, that all the families of the earth are to be blessed by Messiah's Kingdom, and that the Church, in process of election, is to be sharer with her Lord in that Kingdom.

"In the Ages to Come."
The heights and depths and lengths and breadths of Divine love toward the elect Church, the Bride of Christ, will not be fully exhibited to angels and to men, even during the glorious period of Messiah's reign. Saint Paul explicitly declares, "that in the Ages to come He might show the exceeding riches of His grace in His kindness toward us through Christ Jesus" (Ephesians II, 6, 7). Is it asked what opportunity there will be for further favors to be bestowed upon the Church at the conclusion of Messiah's reign?

If our astronomical concepts are correct, all the fixed stars are suns, and around each sun are planets. Are there, then, a thousand blazing suns? Yes, more! Are there ten thousand? Yes, more! Are there ten million? Yes, more! Are there ten billion? Yes, more! Are there ten trillion? Yes, more! Are there ten quadrillion? Yes, more! And if we allow an average of ten planets to each sun this would make more than a thousand million planets, all made not in vain, but eventually to be inhabited.

Alas! our poor minds are bewildered with such manifestations of Divine Power and Wisdom, even as we have already been bewildered in our attempt to appreciate the heights and depths of Divine Love. Will there not indeed, then, be quite a sufficiency of the Divine Program to be outworked through Christ and the Church to justify the Apostolic statement that in the Ages to come God will manifest the exceeding riches of His grace in His loving kindness toward us in Christ Jesus?

TODAY'S EVANSVILLE NEWS

TWO WEDDINGS HELD AT CUT-OFF CITY

Brooklyn Young People go to Evansville to Have the Nuptial Knot Tied.

Evansville, Feb. 23.—The marriage of Miss Mabel Krueger to Robert Zwiesel, was solemnized at the German Lutheran parsonage, Rev. Robt. Hoffmann officiating, Thursday at noon. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Krueger. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Zwiesel. Both parties reside in Brooklyn.

The parsonage was very prettily decorated in green and white for the occasion. The bride was very daintily attired in a gown of light blue messaline. The couple were attended by Miss Gladys Smith and Verne Krueger. A delicious dinner was served after which the couple departed for their home in Brooklyn where a reception was given in their honor last night.

Lamb-West.
The marriage of Miss Beale Lamb of Brooklyn to William W. West of Union took place at the Congregational parsonage Wednesday noon. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Will Lamb. The couple will go to Brooksville on the Chicago farm about five miles east of this city.

EVANSVILLE Y TEAM DEFEATS OLYMPICS
Cut Off City Boys Win in Best Game of Season From Madison Five. —Juniors Win From Madison Lads.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Evansville, Feb. 23.—One of the most exciting games of the season was played here last night between the Olympic Club of Madison and the first team of the Y. M. C. A. It might be called a wrestling match or boxing bout as well as basketball as the Olympic Club well deserves the name of fighters. They came here last night boasting that they would be the winners, but the local lads were too good for them. The game was won by the Evansville boys by a score of 25 to 23. The lineups were as follows:

Fifty-Four Indictments for Dynamiting Conspiracy Bring Large Number to Trial.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 23.—Arraignments were completed by the government today for the arraignments on March 112 of the men indicted in the dynamite conspiracy case. District Attorney Charles W. Miller announced that about forty-eight of the fifty-four defendants will go before Judge A. D. Anderson here and enter pleas in answer to the thirty-two indictments.

The McNamara's, Orin McNamara and probably several of the defendants who are also indicted on the Pacific coast, probably will not appear and John J. McGray, formerly of Wheeling, W. Va., has not been apprehended.

Miss Hazel Campbell of Madison, is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Campbell of this city. Mrs. Albert Bowen is visiting relatives in Jamesville.

Attorney L. M. Richmond was a Madison caller Thursday. Mr. McMann was a business visitor here yesterday.

Wm. Campbell of Madison, was a recent caller here. A. S. Baker is in Des Moines for a few days stay.

Alex Evans of Freeport, is visiting his sister Mrs. George Hyne. Mr. and Mrs. George Mitchell are entertaining the former's parents from Delavan.

Paul Gray is on the sick list at present. Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Death are visiting in Fond du Lac.

Worked Hard for Success.
Dr. Luther H. Gulick, director of the department of hygiene of the State Board of Health, came up from the ranks. At Oberlin college he cut lawns, cared for house furnaces and worked as a book agent. In preparing for college at the high school at Hanover, N. H., he paid his living expenses by sawing wood and waiting on table at a summer hotel. He studied at the medical college of the University of New York, taught physical training, had a milk route, and got up before daybreak to milk the cows, after which he made delivery to his customers.

Dr. Gulick was born in Honolulu, spent his childhood in Japan, and learned the Japanese language thoroughly. In his younger life he intended to follow his father's footsteps and become a medical missionary.

CHIROPRACTIC (KI-RO-PRAK-TIK)

A perfect spine insures perfect health. An imperfect spine causes disease. Your health is indicated by the kind of spine you have. Because you have no pain in your back is no proof your back bone is in perfect order. If a nerve connected with the stomach is pinched at the spine the stomach will be diseased. If the nerves supplying the heart are pinched or stretched, the heart will be diseased. This is true of all other organs and tissues.

Your spine may not be noticeably deformed to the eye or even to the touch of the untrained person, but remember he is not a spine specialist. However slight the deformity, the Chiropractor will discover it and correct it.

Chiropractic (Ki-ro-prak-tik) adjustments, by restoring normal action to the nerves, supply new life force to weakened ligaments and muscles; displaced organs resume their normal position; inflammation subsides; abnormal tissue growths are removed without the use of the knife.

There is a first cause for every pain in the body. The sooner you have the cause removed, the easier and quicker you will get well. Have the cause removed so nature can cure.

STATE LIBRARIANS
ELECTED OFFICERS;
TO MEET AT WAUSAU

MISS LYDIA KINSLEY OF JANESVILLE, VICE-PRESIDENT—
HON. W. H. HATTON, NEW LONDON, PRESIDENT.

SERVICE OF LIBRARY

Various Ways and Methods by Which
Institution Can Render Service
Discussed—Sessions
Close Today.

At the business session of the State Library Association this morning the report of the nominating committee was received and the following officers of the association to serve during the ensuing year: State Senator W. H. Hutton, New London, president; Miss Lydia Kinsley, Janesville, vice-president; Miss Della C. Oltz, Librarian state normal school Milwaukee, secretary and Miss Flora Roberts Superior, treasurer. Miss Oltz, however, found it impossible to act for another term and her successor was named and accepted at the meeting this afternoon. Miss Julia Rupp, Oshkosh, was named secretary at the meeting this afternoon.

Wausau Is Chosen.

After considerable discussion Wausau was accepted ahead of Milwaukee by a close vote as the meeting place of the convention for 1913. The advantages of the Cream City were strenuously set forth by the delegates from that city, but as the convention was held there last year and as the southern part of the state has been favored with the larger number of meetings, the northern Wisconsin city was finally selected.

The discussions at the session this morning were particularly interesting to the delegates and involved for the most part a consideration of the various ways and means by which the library can render effective service to all persons and classes.

Civic Pride in Library.

Miss Maud Van Huren of Madison, took charge of the meeting following Mr. Neystrom's paper and gave a talk on "Civic Pride in the Library." She pictured four classes of libraries which are found throughout the country; one class where there was poor house-keeping, books badly kept, tables and desks dusty and general lack of civic pride; a second class in which the library was turned into a sort of society clubhouse, serving only the members of the "upper ten"; a third class which made an honest effort to do good work but whose ideas of strict adherence to rules prevented the best results; and the fourth class which really served the public, all classes of people in all positions. This latter class was the ideal in which there was never a lack of civic pride and which never was handicapped by a lack of appropriation from the city council.

Other speakers of the morning handled various phases of the library work. Miss Flora B. Roberts of Superior read a paper the subject of which was "The Library and the Foreign Citizen." She advocated an effort on the part of librarians and library management to interested foreigners in the use of the library. She declared foreign books and papers should be supplied as one method of aiding them, and that they will become better citizens and sooner Americanized if they are first reached through their own language.

Other Subjects Discussed.

Other subjects discussed this morning had to do with the relation of the "Library to Transients by Miss Harriet Allen of Rhinelander; "Library and the Rural Community," Miss Kate Potter, Baraboo, and "The Library as a Place of Business," Miss Ada J. McCarthy, Marinette.

A very good paper on the topic, "The Library and its Branches," prepared by Miss Catharine Ruchow, was read in which was advocated the establishment of branches of the public library in the schools and factory where books can be loaned at stated times during the week. This was proved very effective in Racine where it has been tried out.

The work of the university extension bureau and its relation to the library was discussed by George B. Averill of Milwaukee who told of the hearty co-operation which the bureau had been accorded by the librarians where the work had extensively carried on.

Leo Tiefenthaler of Milwaukee, explained the work of the municipal reference library and its rising importance as a means of securing information regarding city affairs for citizens and city officials. It was indicated that the people in charge of such libraries must be intimately acquainted with politics and economics and must work with the city's officers, not for them. Mr. Tiefenthaler failed to explain just how advisable such a library would be to cities of the size of Janesville.

Among librarians in the vicinity of Janesville who attend the meetings were: E. K. Schenmy and Jessie E. Sprague, Broadhead; Nellie M. Meyer and Eva M. Butlin, Holoit; Inez Brightman and Mrs. A. B. West, Milton Junction; Maggie Gillett, Evansville; Mary A. Smith, Mary L. Hicks, Madison; Lillian E. Jones, Anna M. Klumb, and Emma Wald, Racine; Ethel Frost, Evansville; Mary Nelson and Fanny R. Jackson, Whitewater; Kate M. Potter and Mrs. W. C. Richards, Baraboo; Mrs. Geo. Farnum, Edgerton; Amanda Droning, Stoughton; Emma A. Revell, Mabel L. Snyder and Florence A. Bailey, Rockford, and Mrs. F. H. Morris, Milton Junction.

Mrs. Thorne-Thomson Talks.

Mrs. Gudrun Thorne-Thomson of Chicago, who is recognized as a national authority in the matter of children's literature, gave a very interesting address at the librarians' meeting last evening. She brought out the idea that parents and teachers had to exist the idea of what should be accomplished by story-telling which should have for its purpose the giving of pleasure and true joy to the children rather than enforcing any ethical and moral teaching. It was better, the speaker said, to let the children draw their own conclusions from the tales rather than to point out the moral which you want to teach for them.

"When we think of what the great values of children's literature are," said the speaker, "we realize that there is, perhaps, no one greater than the teaching of moral and ethical truths. The stories which are told are calculated to mend moral wrongs, to cure unhealthiness, to teach generosity, patience, and the difference between right and wrong, and to inculcate virtue."

"That it is impossible to treat a child as a piece of marble to be carved into whatever shape you wish by the mere telling of stories and the drawing of morals which you want to impress. Nor can you treat children's literature like a patent medicine which can be given as a cure-all for ethical deficiencies. If this were possible what could we not accomplish with our children?"

"In the great art of story-telling the child wants none of the stories which are dressed up with a moral lesson at the end which he may take as a sugar-coated pill. It is impossible to force your interpretation on the child and as soon as you do he will begin to distrust you. The great poets and story tellers have done their work better than we and how can we expect to improve on their masterful tales."

"Of course we want to entice the children by story-telling for the sake of the good. The child sees the hero and his great deeds and if he is interested and influenced on the moral side it is a great moral victory. But we cannot force our own interpretation, it is for them to hear, to feel and to decide."

Some Helpful Criticism.

Mrs. Thorne-Thomson criticized the prevalent enthusiasm to teach the children something of nature and nature-study by telling stories. The science and nature-study that is taught by such a method is usually very inferior and generally tends to mislead, misunderstanding and confusion. To teach the child English is rather the important purpose. Teach him to tell the story to you in his own words and allow him to use his own language to express his thoughts.

"It is pitiful to see the way in which literature is killed and murdered in our public schools when under the name of teaching literature they analyze and pick to pieces and when the students come away they hate literature and never care to read or hear of the stories which they have thus treated in the school room."

"What then should the stories do? They should at least give joy and pleasure. They should be something more than entertainment; they should instill a desire to feel life and to understand more keenly. They should enable the child to create wholes out of his single experiences. It is possible through poetry and the story to control the child's imagination so that he will come to know what is good and true, and what is right and wrong."

Today with the thousands of books at hand for children how much easier it is to teach them to grow understandingly. We have all the folkloric tales, fables or six cycles of hero worship, besides our more modern stories some of which were not written for children but which they can come to understand. Story-telling is only one of the ways of teaching literature to the child. It is an opportunity for you to be in a medium by which the child can secure the benefits of this literature. Stories should be told in the home, in the Sabbath school, in the settlement, and in the library, moulding the minds of the children, pleasing them and teaching, while they only enjoy and desire to hear more."

THREAT OF SUICIDE

WAS ONLY A BLUFF

Words of Joseph Zastoupel Were Taken Seriously by his Wife Who Had Police Look Him up.

Frightened by his veiled threat of suicide, the wife and son of Joseph Zastoupel, an elderly laborer residing at 1220 Western avenue, last evening telephoned the police to take him into custody and prevent him from carrying out his expressed purpose. The patrol responded promptly and Zastoupel was brought to the station where he spent the night. This morning with the fog of intoxication cleared from his mind he denied having any intention to end his life. He admitted telling his wife and son that if he could not secure work he might as well commit suicide, but that his words had no significance.

CHICAGO WOMAN FINDS FURNITURE IS STOLEN

Mrs. L. M. Gilmore Goes to South Side Apartment After Absence and Finds Goods Removed.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—When Mrs. L. M. Gilmore went to her home on the South Side today to arrange for the removal of her furniture which she previously had purchased she found the apartment practically empty. Neighbors told her that two colored men had called at the house the day before and removed the furniture in a wagon. Mrs. Gilmore estimated her loss at $2,000.

Father Was Close.

The following question was asked by a social worker in a conversation with a shabby urchin of the Milwaukee slums: "Sonny, suppose I lend your father $20; how long will it take him to pay me back at the rate of $5 a week?" The boy responded at once: "All his lifetime, and then some." "Why," said the inquisitive sociologist, "how long do you expect your father to live?" "Well, you don't know my man, he might live 300 years, but you can't get over two bits from him."

HEART AND HOME TALKS

Cut Out Useless Housework

HOW many housekeepers actually put their brains upon the problem of cutting out useless housework? And there is a big difference between neglecting work and eliminating it. A housekeeper often has to neglect work or half do it, because she hasn't time or energy to perform all the duties that press. But perhaps if she would study the situation, without regard either to convention or tradition, she might be able to cut out so much that the remainder could easily be accomplished. Efficiency is becoming the watchword of the business world. Every operation of the worker, from the lowest grade of labor to the highest, is being studied to see how effort can be concentrated, and every action made to count. This same method should be brought to bear upon housekeeping. And since nearly every home is an individual problem, so that few general laws in regard to household efficiency can be laid down, each housekeeper should work out her own problem for herself.

To begin with, study every operation of your various household duties. Criticize your method of getting breakfast. Notice if you handle the dishes unnecessarily when washing them. Let no detail of your work escape you to see if you can cut out steps, or the handling of your implements of work or of food. These seem little things, but when you walk backward and forward between table and dresser fifty times a day, it takes much time and strength consumed. Each individual movement seems little, but in the aggregate they mount up.

When you come to study the subject, you may find you need to change some of your kitchen arrangements. You may perhaps need to buy more modern implements of work. But you will find both worth while, when they bring their return of time and strength for other things.

The kitchen is a workshop, and it should be planned with this purpose in view. It should be as cheery and pleasing to the eye as possible, but its raison d'être should never be lost sight of.

The same study should be given to other parts of the household work. How many old clothes, hats, neckties, useless gifts, are stored away which twice a year, at the semi-annual housecleaning, must be handled, possibly dusted, brushed, and put away again? Nearly every household has these things. And absolutely useless work is performed in taking care of them. Closet shelves, bureau drawers, storerooms, are filled with them, and year in and out, they are moved about, all to no purpose. It may be something of a wrench to part with them. But honestly are they of any use? If you must admit that they are not, then dispose of them. Cut out this work of taking care of them.

Some women reduce their household work by dropping out certain things they formerly did. They buy cakes instead of baking them. They do not preserve or can or make jelly, as they used to do. Whether to adopt this plan or not, each housekeeper must decide for herself. But aside from this, she can reduce her work by bringing efficiency into her methods. She can take five steps where she formerly took ten. She can make every movement of her hands count for something, instead of half of them being useless and half needless. She can deliberately cut out certain work that brought no profitable result whatever.

To accomplish all this, she'll probably need to do some hard thinking, and she'll need to get out of ruts. But it will bring a certain spice of novelty into her work that will make it more enjoyable. And it will save her so much time and strength that housework will no longer be a drudgery.

FOR REDUCING HIP-GIRTH.

HERE are four simple but effective exercises for reducing the flesh about the hips and abdomen. The last two are taken from "Daily Ways to Health," by Mrs. Emily M. Bishop, who was my teacher of physical culture.

1. Lying flat upon the back, place the feet against the baseboard or any convenient place of furniture and steadily lift the body to a sitting position. Repeat a number of times. Some can take this exercise without any support to the feet.
2. Standing lightly poised on the balls of the feet, extend the arms straight up from the shoulders, palms to the front, keeping the knees and elbows straight. Bend forward and back, using the hips as a hinge. Repeat a number of times rapidly. Some take this bending exercise with the tips of the fingers held together.
3. "Standing with the weight on both feet, raise the arms laterally to the level of the shoulders, the hands extended, palms up. Keeping the knees tense and the arms as stiff as those of a windmill—not allowing them to move independently from the shoulders, but only with the body—bend the body to the right side and raise it to an upright position five or six times in quick succession. After bending similarly to the left side, rest a moment. Next, in the same position as before, bend to the right, then quickly from right to left, and so on for eight or ten times."
4. "Stand in the doorway and reach vigorously upward, first with one hand and then with the other. Mark the highest point your fingertips can reach in your biggest stretch on your first day's practice, then note the increased mobility in your muscles after a few days' practice of this simple stretching exercise."

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

By Alice E. Whitaker.

How a Trained Nurse Makes and Changes an Invalid's Bed.

One of the pleasant things to be remembered about a hospital experience is the bed and its good care. The hospital bed is so high that the nurse does not have to bend to make it or move the invalid. The linen and covers are large enough so that they can be made to stay in place.

The ordinary sheet, especially those bought at the bargain sales, is at least a quarter of a yard too short and cannot be tucked under the mattress at head or foot.

To make the bed properly lay on the under sheet and tuck it in firmly at top and foot of bed, draw at the sides so tightly, that not a sign of a wrinkle appears, then tuck under neatly. Fold a sheet lengthwise once and lay across the bed so that the top comes just to the pillows; draw firmly and tuck in at the sides. This is called a draw sheet and can be changed easily by pulling out one side and rolling it up to the patient's back. By turning the patient over or working it under his back it is quickly drawn out.

Half of the clean draw sheet is rolled tightly; the other half is laid smoothly on the bed and tucked in at the sides. The invalid is then moved over the rolled end of the sheet which is straightened out and tucked in. Put on the top sheet then the blanket and spread and push them under the foot far enough to stay. Fold the top edge of the spread under the blanket then the sheet over both on to the outside and tuck the whole well in at the sides.

In a good hospital or at home in charge of a trained nurse the invalid has an entire change of bed linen every day. Sometimes a change every other day will do, according to the nature of the illness but the clean well aired bed linen is a great comfort to the invalid who will often drop to sleep under its refreshing influence.

Changing the bedding of a sick person is a trial if the home nurse does not know how to do it well. The trained nurse learns it early in her school experience. In the first place, she has everything about and right at hand so that no time is lost in going across the room for it.

Move the patient as far to one side as possible and push the under sheet and draw sheet as far as possible to the middle of the bed. Lay a rolled clean sheet the length of the bed unroll partly and tuck in, also the draw sheet in the same manner.

Now move the patient along to the clean side, draw out the soiled sheets, unroll the clean ones and tuck in being sure to pull out all the wrinkles. All this time the invalid has not been uncovered in the least and must not be so the problem of how to change the covers is to be met.

To change the upper sheet first take off the spread then lay the clean sheet over the blanket and pin it at each side of the top to the bed with safety pins or if the invalid is strong enough he may hold the top in his hands. Go to the foot of the bed and draw out the blanket and the old sheet. Lay the blanket back quickly over the bed, put on the spread take out the pins and finish the bed making as described above.

The bed will be neat and the invalid will not be tired out or take a chill. Now change the pillow case and carry the soiled linen at once from the room.

ECONOMICAL MEAT DISHES.

Meat may be made to go much further in the menu and the dish will be as valuable in nutrition.

Servian Rice With Meat.—Wipe off with a dampened cloth a piece of meat weighing about a pound and a half (a piece from the shoulder), cut in inch squares. Heat a frying pan and put in a little sweet lard and an onion cut in thin slices and a third of a carrot. Put over the fire with the meat, a tablespoonful of salt, a teaspoon of paprika and cook over a slow fire. When half done add a pint of water and a half pound of rice, adding more water as the rice cooks. Season further before serving.

Mutton Stew.—Take a piece from the neck, cut in small pieces and put to cook with a sprig of parsley, a bay leaf, two cloves and two peppercorns with water to nearly cover the meat. Let simmer about two hours, then add a carrot cut in fancy slices, and six potatoes cut in thick slices, a cup of strained tomato and simmer until the meat and vegetables are tender. Remove the parsley and bay leaf and serve.

The pink skin on mutton is the part that gives the undesirable woolly taste; if that is removed the stew will be more delicate.

Liver à la Mme. Begue.—Take a pound of calf's liver cut in inch slices. Lay the liver in salted water while you peel five large onions, the larger the better; slice in thin slices and cut in halves. Dry the liver and place in layers with the onion; let stand for an hour then cut the liver in cubes, dredge with flour and season with salt and pepper. Dredge the onions in the same way, then fry all in a frying basket until well cooked, the onions a golden brown.

Pile the liver into a platter and garnish with a circle of onions.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

A FRIEND of mine, who had been bothered by the return of an old trouble with her digestion, threatened to consult a new doctor.

"What's the matter with Dr. J?" I asked. "Didn't he help you the last time you had those spells?"

"Oh, yes, I suppose he did," she admitted. "But I know just what he'll say if I go to him. He'll ask if I am careful not to let myself get overworked, and he'll want to know if I am outdoors as much as he told me to be, and if I do my exercises and drink plenty of water and rest before eating. And then he'll tell me to go home and do all those things. Just as like as not he won't give me any medicine at all, or nothing but some meddling little pills. I want a doctor who will give me some good strong medicine that will do me some good."

If there are any doctors among my reader friends, I feel quite sure they must recognize this woman. For she is an excellent example of that very common class of people who think they can disobey the laws of health and habit, and then go to a doctor and "get some good strong medicine" to make them well again.

There was a time when doctors encouraged, or at least did not discourage, people in the idea that they could do this, but the medical teaching of today says most emphatically that the man or woman who hopes to arrive at health by the short cut of drugs, instead of taking the broad highway of right living is doomed to disappointment.

Everywhere there is springing up this new school of medicine, the principal idea of which is to teach the patient principles of conservation, prevention and right living, instead of simply to cure him by drugs, after he has ignored all these principles. Drugs are used, of course, but only in combination with natural forces. And everywhere sluggish human nature is being—like a child for candy—to be given back its drugs and its faith in them as substitutes for right living.

Let me tell you what one doctor said about this new school of medicine. She has not been so busy of late, as she was five or ten years ago, and this is the reason—"It's just because of all this prevention talk," she said. "Why, there isn't anywhere near the sickness there used to be. With all this talk about fresh air and bathing, with all that's taught in the schools, and all the health instructions in the magazines and newspapers, and the athletics and gymnasium classes, how could there be so much sickness? There isn't room for so many doctors now, as there used to be—they aren't needed."

"Think what that means if it is true. It means that the doctors themselves are teaching, preaching, and publishing doctrines that in the end will hurt their own profession."

And yet they are willing—and many of them eager—to do it. Doesn't it seem as if we ought to be willing to listen to these doctrines and try to absorb the good from them, instead of childishly turning our backs upon them?

FADS AND FASHIONS

New York, Feb. 23.—Although the dictators of fashion in Paris by no means agree upon the subject, there is reason to believe that the coming season will bring a slightly greater width in the skirt line and with it a striking change in the silhouette. The various designers in Paris and elsewhere are still experimenting with the new idea and the models so far produced do not represent any definite conclusion. However, a change may be expected. It will not be startling, but clearly perceptible.

The tailored costume is not likely to call for very much more material than was put into it last year and, though there is more room at the foot, this is usually accomplished in some manner that does not detract materially from the straight skirt line. In the popular one-piece simple frock of crepe, linen and similar materials one finds the same state of things as to the skirt, but with the more abundant and supple materials, whether of cut or silk, the designers are decidedly increasing the amount of material required for dress lengths, and the manufacturers of such fabrics are undoubtedly very thankful for the change.

Some of the leading French designers are experimenting with godet or ripple arrangements, widening the skirt very gradually and slightly toward the bottom instead of leaving the bottom line narrow, whatever the fulness above. This, in the opinion of many, gives the most graceful and sensible of skirt lines and does not of necessity mean buffalinity or wide spread at the skirt bottom.

The triple and double seam tunic arrangements frequently seen in the new tailors and in many other materials as well offer good opportunity for experiment with this ripple line and some of the designers have improved the opportunity, but very discreetly and unobtrusively, giving a flare to the broadening skirt.

A large number of cases the increased skirt fulness has to do chiefly with the upper part of narrowness at the bottom, an effect unobtrusively if bungled, as many models have proved within the last year, but charming enough if skilfully handled in appropriate material and with proper weightings.

There is nothing actually new in the amount the tub frocks of the simpler sort. The skirt has a trifle more fulness, but the skirt of the steepest summer frock always did have a little fulness, and the additional fulness in linens, and other thin materials is not over conspicuous, though it may be there in a godet seam or an inverted plait or a flounce about yet shaped to a hint of rippling. One finds a good many of these flounces, if flounces they may be called, some of them joined to severely straight and plain upper skirts of linen or other firm material, sometimes added below softly full upper sections whose

Black satin is used to quite an extent in the making of lingerie dresses, and black velvet in the form of buttons and girdles is frequently used as a trimming of lingerie dresses. Some of the crepe dresses are trimmed with a combination of black and white braid, the trimming being confined, as a rule, to the upper portion of the dress rather than the skirt.

A great many crepe or mistral cloth dresses are seen in white, some of which taking the place of volles in point of popularity. It is new and effective and is very satisfactory as to wear. Another material which is favorably regarded is agate cloth, which is very much on the order of a fine Turkish toweling. This material will be used to a considerable extent in the making of summer dresses, as it is so attractive and novel.

Crepe is shown in some exceptionally attractive designs in dresses, which are usually in black. Many of these dresses button in the front, and have collars, with some, a band of lace running from the collar to the foot of the skirt, are noted in the trimming. Quaker collar, narrow, round and deep pointed, will be fashionable during the coming season.

Trunks in various forms are extensively used in the designing of dresses of all materials. Many of them are short and give the effect of a double skirt. Double and triple skirts will also be largely used.

The normal waist line will be seen to quite an extent. Many of the dresses which have a normal waist line show some fulness, generally in the form of double box pleats, which are arranged in the back of the skirt and are shallow, especially as they descend toward the foot of the skirt.

The belt in sleeve in the kimono effect continues to be the most popular model, but other kinds are also seen.

GIVE INTELLIGENT CONSIDERATION TO YOUR EATING.

A successful factory is conducted on the theory that there should be as little waste of power, labor, machinery and superintendence as possible. A system is followed to secure efficiency. The directly beneficial or injurious effects of eating have led trainers of athletes to adopt systematic dieting as well as exercise and other means of producing efficiency. Food should be relished. Nauseous food cannot be well digested, but the habits of eating are often not productive of the greatest enjoyment of the food and hardly ever of the greatest efficiency or best health.
